

California is not a primacy state that has pre-operational testing requirements.